

140 Bow Common Lane, London, E3 4BH

Asking price £875,000

Perfectly positioned between the City, Canary Wharf and Stratford, yet enveloped in rich landscape, Bow Green blends the best of both worlds. Created by St James, part of the Berkeley Group, 1,450 new homes seamlessly integrate with nature. Alongside award-winning designers and architects with a shared vision to create a thriving new neighborhood, greenery knits together dining experiences, work spaces, and parkland. At the heart of this landscape an impressive earth sculpture forms a central focal piece and a new destination for all to enjoy. With three Underground and DLR stations within easy walking distance, commuting to work, leisure activities and London's renowned universities becomes effortlessly convenient. Beyond the development, attractive Georgian street scenes, popular East London parks and canal walks are a delight to explore on foot or by bike. And when the comfort of home calls, you have everything right here, including a restaurant, a convenience store and exclusive residents' facilities. Living here, you can have both the energy of the city and the tranquility of nature. It's the perfect balance.
